

ABSTRACT

A mail sorting bin insert permits substantially vertical mail stacking in mail bins even when the bin is partially empty. The insert comprises a base and at least one substantially vertical support of a lightweight, strong material. The insert can be used in conjunction with automatic sorting of flat mail, and can be sized to fit in mail bins used in other automated operations.